Happy Holidays to You and Yours

Whether you celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, Bodhi, Kwanzaa, or other holidays, we wish you and yours hope, health and happiness this season and for the new year ahead.

Happy Holidays

Diwali | Hanukkah | Kwanzaa | Christmas | Orthodox Christmas | New Years | Lunar New Year | Orthodox New Year | Tet Nguyen Dan or Tet

As this year comes to an end, I want to share my gratitude for the great people I have met in our wonderful communities. I also want to thank you all for your resilience, patience and above all else the caring hearts you each share with your friends, neighbours and Parkbridge teams.

From our Parkbridge family to yours, have a wonderful holiday season. Stay safe, stay warm and count your many blessings.

Kind Regards,
Mirka Rollason
Regional Manager, Central West

Staying Connected

Winter can be a challenging season at the best of times. With the year we've had, it will be extra important to keep spirits up by connecting with friends and family (and our Parkbridge team!) even if we can't visit in person. Research continues to show how much we all need social interaction and support. It has never been more important to stay in touch!

Here are some ideas to help us stay connected and keep spirits up this winter

1. Even short calls mean a lot. Sometimes we tend to put off reaching out if we think it will take too long or we don't want to bother someone. But even a quick "Just called to say hi" can brighten someone's day and only takes a minute.
2. Find an excuse to connect—if there's a reason and a routine, you're more likely to keep it up! You might set up a virtual book club, compare notes on your favourite TV series, or schedule a weekly outdoor walk with friends... anything that will inspire you to build connection into your routine so it becomes a good health habit.
3. Send some snail mail. Who doesn't love receiving a thoughtful message in the mail? Writing letters or cards (especially over the holidays) is a wonderful way to spread some cheer. If you have children at home, crafting cards can be a creative diversion too!
4. Spice things up! If having video calls with family and friends is getting stale, try making it a themed event: Halloween revival? Holiday sweaters? Sports teams? Incorporate an online game? Or just brainstorm ideas for your next call!
