COVID-19 Update

While the risk of COVID-19 remains low, we would like to take this opportunity to remind you of recommendations Health Canada has provided to Canadians to help avoid the spread of the virus:

- Those who think they may have been exposed to COVID-19 should contact their healthcare provider immediately.
- If you are required by your physician or the local health unit to have a quarantine period, please do not have visitors during that time and avoid public spaces within Sandycove Acres, such as the recreation halls, fitness and laundry rooms.
- If you have travelled internationally or have guests visiting from another country, we ask you to please monitor for flu-like symptoms and take the necessary precautions to avoid the spread of germs (see below).
- If you have planned international travel, you are encouraged to keep an eye on travel advisories.
- Wash your hands thoroughly and often, particularly after using the washroom, before and after handling food, and any time your hands may be dirty.
- Use alcohol-based hand sanitizer before and after meetings, and when hand washing is not possible.
- Cough or sneeze into a tissue (then throw it out).
- Clean surfaces often with anti-bacterial cleaners (especially those that are used frequently).

We take the health and safety of our homeowners, guests and employees seriously. If you have been diagnosed or exposed to COVID-19, please notify a member of our team so that we can ensure we are doing our part in protecting the residents of Sandycove Acres from the spread of the illness.

As always, if you have any questions, please feel free to reach out to our team via email at sandycove@parkbridge.com or via phone at 705-436-1571 and press 0 for reception.
